

Leave the Wisconsin No-Call list alone. If I want services, I'll ask for them.

I've got an idea - make up a National Call list. Set it up on a website. If I want to be called about insurance or banking services, I'll sign up to get those calls. Everybody else should leave me alone. I bet it remains a very small list; it should be very cheap and easy to maintain.

In the opinion of this registered and active voter, far too many telemarketers prey on consumer fears and a general desire to be polite. There's only one reason they want to do this sort of marketing - it allows them to generate sales from people who wouldn't otherwise purchase their services or products.

If Americans have a nickel in their pockets, there are 17 jackals out there trying to suck it out - mostly with services and products we don't need - and people honestly wonder why Americans don't save more!!!!

Leave it up to the people - we wanted it this way. The Wisconsin No-call list is supported by a VAST majority of residents. If merchants want to change it, let them request a referendum in Wisconsin instead of using the Federal Government to pull an end-run around the public's will.

I WILL NOT CONDUCT BUSINESS OVER THE PHONE. I WILL NEVER CONDUCT BUSINESS WITH A COMPANY THAT TRIES TO CONTACT ME. I WILL NOT CONDUCT BUSINESS WITH A COMPANY TRYING TO CIRCUMVENT OUR LAWS.

Thank you.
